DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Receipt is acknowledged of applicant's election of species filed on March 24, 2009. Amine Oil 1, IT 10/80, and AK350 from Table 1 of specification for Groups I, II, and III, were elected respectively.

Applicant asserts the species encompassed by the present claims form a single inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1, and identifies the single inventive concept as the high solids emulsion (solids > 45 %) which contains an amino-functional organopolysiloxane and an emulsifier, and has a pH greater than equal to 7.5. Applicant asserts the inventive examples all have both high solids content and low viscosities and are within the range of claim 9. In response, examiner respectfully points out the disclosure of specification p. 5, lines 33 – 35 that the organopolysiloxanes of the present invention is in the form of liquid, and there is no requirement in the present claims that the silicone be solids. Applicant is also reminded that species election requirement is only a tool for search strategy for the examiner and not a limitation to the scope of any potentially patentable claims.

In view of the claim amendment received on March 24, 2009, restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372. See 37 C.F.R. § 1.499. The claims are now directed to two distinct inventions lacking unity of invention under § 1.475.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 9-15 and 17-20, drawn to an oil-in-water emulsion comprising at least 45 % by weight of at least one organopolysiloxane having the amino group as defined in claim 9; at least one emulsifier, and water; and having a pH of at least 7.5 and a viscosity of no more than 50,000 mPas at 25 C.

Group II, claim(s) 16, drawn to a process of making an oil-in-water emulsion comprising at least 45 % by weight of organopolysiloxane containing element N; at least one emulsifier, and water; and having a pH of at least 7.5 and a viscosity of no more than 50,000 mPas at 25 C.

The inventions listed as Groups I and II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: the organopolysiloxanes of groups I and II have different scope. Group I is directed to an oil-in-water emulsion of the organopolysiloxanes as defined in claim 9, with specific radical Y of formula II. On the other hand, the process claim encompasses process of making organopolysiloxanes which merely require the presence of nitrogen atom. Since the two inventions are directed organopolysiloxanes of different kinds, the link to a single general inventive is no longer present.

The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and the product claims are subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be considered for rejoinder. All claims directed to a nonelected process invention must require all the limitations of an allowable product claim for that process invention to be rejoined.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112. Until all claims to the elected product are found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowable product claim will not be rejoined. See MPEP § 821.04(b). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution to require the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder. Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.
